TEUTONS GAIN FOOTING IN LONGUEVAL AND DELVILLE IN TODAY'S FIGHTING IN THE WEST.

NEAR AUSTRIAN REAR

Slavs Are Heavily Reinforced for Attack on Hindenburg's Line in North and Advance on Austria in South.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, July 19.—The Germans have recaptured a portion of Delville wood and obtained a footing in the northern outskirts of Longueval, the war office announced today.

Germans Recapture Villages. Berlin, July 19.—The recapture by German troops of the villages of Longueval and Delville was announced today.

Russ Line Reinforced. The Russians have been strongly reinforced along the front south and southwest of Riga at the northern end of the Russian line and have been busy today checking the German offensive there, the war office announced today. The assault, however, failed. The Russians suffered insignificantly severe losses.

French Gain at Verdun. Paris, July 19.—The French made some progress last night on the Verdun front in the course of hand grenade fighting in the vicinity of Fleury, says today's official report. Artillery actions continue in this section.

A German raid in the region of Paschendale, Belgium for the French forces was reported, as was a raid north of the line near Paez. Along the greater part of the front the night was quiet.

Threatened Austrian Rear. London, July 19.—A dispatch says the Russians are threatening the Austrian rear in the communications.

The advance was being made, according to the information of the German press, after an interval of five days.

The Russians have penetrated a day's march into Hungary, according to a dispatch to the Star from Petrograd.

British Success in Africa. The following official report in regard to the campaign in German East Africa was issued today: "Telegraph, July 18.—Gen. F. M. G. has reported that the British forces which endeavored to operate against the German line of communication between the German and Italian colonies have been driven down the Pangani river, abandoning a field gun. Clearance of this area is progressing satisfactorily."

New Italian Advance. Rome, July 19.—A new advance for the Italians in the Fossia valley, where they succeeded in capturing a position on Cornello Corno, was announced today by the war office. An attack by the Austrians on the Italian side of the Fossia was reported.

TALK OF REVIVING OLD W.-I. LEAGUE

Slapnicka Visits Oshkosh for Purpose of Arousing Enthusiasm in Baseball Circuit.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Oshkosh, July 19.—There is talk of re-organizing the old Wisconsin-Illinois league of professional baseball clubs to play in six or eight cities next year.

Carl Slapnicka, former Wisconsin-Illinois league manager, is in Oshkosh, Wis., to see club in the American association, wants to put a club in this city. Slapnicka was here a few days ago looking over the ground. He said if he took hold of it here it would be a class A league with a salary limit of $1,250 or $1,500. Efforts will be made to raise $50,000 among local fans to carry the league through.

Slapnicka has talked here this year and the fans say they want daily professional ball.

LABOR FEDERATION URGES EIGHT HOUR DAY IN WISCONSIN

Frank J. Weber, State Organizer, in Plea for Improved Conditions at Fond du Lac Convention.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Fond du Lac, July 19.—Protesting against the employment of children, pleading that safeguards be thrown about women workers and declaring that organized labor was rallying to a demand for an eight-hour day, Frank J. Weber, general organizer of the Wisconsin State Federation gave his annual report to the state federation convention today.

He declared that a rising tide of organization was apparent among the Wisconsin workers and that improvement was visible. Of women wage earners, he said:

"The modern factory system has brought a great change and the old law that the female must honor and obey, because she was considered a dependent, is no longer applicable to our present industrial system, because the female has been compelled to enter modern factory system as a wage earner. In order that females can be exploited by those who employ female labor, the female is no longer considered a dependent, but an independent human being, who has the right to engage in any kind of labor as a wage earner."

"Since she has entered the field of industry it is of the greatest importance to her to have a constant part of the organized labor movement to better her condition as such."

Sharp criticism was given in the report to the practice of importing armed men and giving them the authority of peace officers in districts where strikes were in progress.

On pre-arranged terms, "Every male and female worker in Wisconsin should be prepared, not for a war to shoot some other worker, but for a war to shoot a strong but be prepared to combine with their fellow workers to obtain better wages for their work, a work day of shorter hours and better conditions."

Objection to the life tenure of United States supreme court judges was made by Mr. Weber, who also criticized systems of scientific shop management as productive of an army of mindless, unthinking, unfeeling and body, unable to keep the pace demanded by the system and a burden on society.

Statistics of labor conditions in Wisconsin were contained in the fourth annual report of the executive committee presented today to the delegates at the convention of the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor. The report showed that the building trades which led in number of unions and members in previous years, increased their number in 1915. Musicians and railway employees, with low figures in 1914, reported a large increase in 1915, the railway employees reporting an increase of more than 500 members over any preceding year.

"The only one of the principal trades which reported a decrease," the report said, "was the brewery workers, which, although having two more unions, reported 200 less members."

In the year the glass blowers' union fell away from 240 members to 75, the largest decrease in any single union.

Tables of weekly earnings covering the various trades showed a gradual increase in the weekly pay rate, and the report said, "the average annual earnings of union members was also advancing. The summary said the average annual earnings reported for 1915 was $833. In 1914 it was $795 and in 1913 it increased to $750."

Eight Hour Group Increased. The report said that the proportion of number in the nine-hour-a-day group had decreased and the eight-hour group increased, "indicating that some who worked nine hours in 1914 have adopted the eight-hour day."

Statistics were included in the committee report showing that rents in the large union centers showed little change through the year, though the whole report said the average rents paid by workmen of the state had decreased compared with 1914.

"Many more unions reporting from small towns where rents are low," was said by the report to explain the decrease.

Eminent Authority On Fishes Describes Man-Eating Sharks

Washington, D. C., July 19.—The tremendous depredations of man-eating sharks along the Atlantic seaboard lend an especially timely interest to communication from Dr. Hugh M. Smith, the foremost American authority on fishes, addressed to the National Geographic society and released today as a bulletin.

"When giant fishes are mentioned most people will at once think of the shark, among which indeed are found the largest fish now existing," writes Mr. Smith. "Of the many species of sharks noteworthy on account of their size there are about half a dozen which are pre-eminent. These differ much in their disposition, some being as harmless as doves and others the incarnation of ferocity."

The sleeper shark (Somniosus microcephalus), whose scientific name fits it so admirably, appears to have developed its body at the expense of its brain, for it is a sluggish, stupid glutton, about six times as long as an average man. At home in the Arctic regions, it sometimes makes visits as far south as Cape Cod, the British Isles and Oregon. It is most often observed lying quietly on the surface, apparently dozing and easily approached, but at times, when hungry, it rises, itself and several hundred pounds, lifting huge pieces out of their sides and tails, and when feeding on the carcass of a whale which has been killed by hunters. It is so voracious that it permits spears and knives to be thrust into it without seeming to take any notice.

One of the most prodigious and perhaps the most formidable of sharks is the man-eater (Carcharodon carcharias). It roams through all temperate and tropical seas and everywhere is feared by man. Its maximum length is 40 feet and its teeth are three inches long. While there are few authentic instances of sharks attacking human beings (prior to the recent tragedies) there have undoubtedly been many cases where sharks simply swallowed people who had fallen overboard, just as they would swallow any other food. How easy it would be for a man-eater to devour a person whole may be judged from the finding of an entire hundred-pound sea lion in the stomach of a 30-foot shark on the California coast. A certain man-eater, thirty-six and a half feet long and weighing twenty inches wide, inside measure, and teeth two and a half inches long. This may have been the "great fish" of the scripture narrative, and it is possible that at that time much larger man-eaters existed than are now known, as shark teeth with cutting edges five inches long have been found on the sea-bottom, and these are believed by naturalists to have belonged to sharks not long dead. The phosphate beds of South Carolina yield very large fossil teeth of a shark which was related to the man-eater of the present day; judging from the comparative size of these teeth. Professor Goode thought that sharks 70 or 80 feet long must have been common.

Many years ago a Norwegian bishop in a learned paper brought to the attention of the scientific and theological worlds a shark which he attempted to prove must have been the "great fish" that swallowed Jonah. This was the basking shark (Cetorhinus maximus), known also as the elephant or bone shark, which is an inhabitant of the polar seas, but occasionally strays as far south as Virginia and California, and in former years was not rare in the United States and British coasts. The basking shark has the habit of times of collecting in schools at the surface and basking in the sun with its back partly out of water. It reaches a maximum length of 50 feet and is exceeded in size by only three or four animals extant. Provided with small teeth, it feeds on fishes and floating crustaceans, and is not a ferocious disposition. It is dangerous only by virtue of its great bulk and when attacked its powerful tail easily demolishes boats. In former years the basking shark was hunted for its oil on the coast of Norway and Ireland; it was also harpooned on the shore of Massachusetts and as many as 12 barrels of oil were sometimes obtained from the liver of one shark. There are many records of basking sharks 25 to 35 feet long from the coast of New York, Massachusetts and Maine, but the species has not been common in our waters in recent years.

The largest of all fishes, the largest of all cold-blooded animals, and the largest of all existing animals, with the exception of a few species of whales, is the whale shark (Rhincodon typus), originally described from Good Hope, but now known from India, Japan, South America, Panama, California and various other places. A small specimen having been obtained on the Florida coast a few years ago. This shark has a very broad and oblong snout and an exceedingly wide mouth armed with numerous teeth; the dark-colored body is marked with many small whitish spots. The species is stated to attain a length of 70 feet and is known to exceed 50 feet. Notwithstanding its immense size, however, it is harmless to man unless attacked, and feeds on the small creatures for which its teeth are adapted. Its huge bulk makes it dangerous in the same way that a whale is dangerous to small boats. It was reported that the sperm-whale fishermen at the island of Saint Denis, in the Indian Ocean, dreaded to harpoon a whale shark by mistake, and stories are told of a harpooned fish having been fastened to the boat, diverged deep and so pulled a pigroog and crew to the bottom.

New London, Conn., July 19.—The steam yacht "Warrior," owned by Alex Cochrane of New York, went ashore on the rocks at Fisher's Island today in the fog. The owner and party were on board at the time. A wireless call was sent out and boats were sent to the boat stranded on the rocks, which was reported as leaking, but in no particular danger. Cochrane and his party were landed at eastern ports.

BOSTON OSTEOPATH HELD FOR ATTEMPT TO KILL COLLEAGUE

Quarrel Over Woman Results in Wounding of Head Osteopath College and Arrest of His Adversary.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Boston, July 19.—Wilfred E. Harris, president of the Massachusetts College of Osteopathy, lay at the point of death today while Dr. Eldridge Van Atwood, also an osteopath, was under arrest charged with an attempt to murder him yesterday in a hotel. Dr. Atwood informed the police that he shot Harris because he believed the latter had wronged his fiancée.

Dr. Harris, who is 45 and married, is a former president of the Comedian Club of Boston, son of a former member of the Canadian Parliament and one of the pioneer osteopaths of Massachusetts.

Dr. Atwood and Miss Adams formerly studied under him at the College of Osteopathy in this city. It was said by Dr. Atwood that Miss Adams recently informed him that their marriage was impossible because Dr. Harris had wronged her, a charge the latter denied. It was stated that the prisoner and Miss Adams had been engaged for some time.

The version of the cause of the shooting given by Atwood, was scouted by Harris during a lucid period. He referred to his assailant as "a young fool."

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] London, July 19.—Another loan will be asked for this week Premier Asquith informed the house of commons today. It will be the eleventh loan since the outbreak of the war and probably will be for 500 million pounds, the same amount as the last one. This will bring up the total for the war to £2,682,000,000.

NEW NEGRO FANATIC CAUSES A SENSATION

Another Colored Man, Not Violent Like Henry McIntyre, Makes Trouble for Chicago Police.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chicago, July 19.—Another negro, who like Henry McIntyre, the insane slayer of four persons yesterday, occupied the attention of the police today, although not a laborer, who in scant attire and his body adorned with mud was racing up and down in front of his home trying to "drive the devil from the race" when arrested.

Chief of Police Healy said today without authority to restrain persons who are merely peculiar in their action, but that if they must be shown, he said, before the police could act.

The chief made this explanation in answer to a question by Judge Olson of the municipal court, that crimes such as that committed by the police would correct all persons acting in a subnormal manner.

There is an increase of 150 per cent in both mortality rate and the development of the plague in the last twenty-four hours.

WILL CONFER ON THE PLANS FOR CAMPAIGN

Candidates Endorsed at the Republican State Convention to Meet in Madison, Thursday.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Milwaukee, Wis., July 19.—A conference to outline campaign plans will be held in Madison on Thursday. With the exception of Maj. Marshall Cousins, who is at the head of his regiment in San Antonio, candidates endorsed at the republican state convention will participate in the meeting.

Gov. E. L. Phillip will return to Madison on Wednesday. The conference was scheduled for Wednesday, but was postponed to Thursday because the governor wished to remain in Milwaukee to keep in close touch with the strike situation.

Whatever campaigning is done by the chief executive probably will be confined to the closing two weeks of the primary contest. Gov. Phillip will not be able to tour the state in an automobile as he did two years ago, but he will be able to accept only a small number of the many invitations to visit in the campaign.

His itinerary, however, will be made up in such a way that he will speak in central points, so that many republicans may avail themselves of the opportunity to hear him.

COMFORTS PROVIDED FOR THE AUDIENCES AT THE CHAUTAUQUA

Electric Fans, Drinking Fountain, Mothers' Tent and Luncheon Tables Supplied by Management.

All is in readiness for the opening of Chautauqua week. The tent is up, electric lights have been installed, the free telephone service to ticket holders is in the tables for the picnicers and a sanitary bubbling fountain are at the service of those who will attend. Electric fans have been installed to assure comfort of the audiences.

The mothers' tent is comfortably fitted with easy reclining chairs, tables, and other conveniences. The street car company has guaranteed a ten minute service direct from South Main street and the First Ward to the Chautauqua grounds.

If anyone knows of anything else that can be done for the convenience or comfort of those who will attend the Chautauqua, if they will be kind enough to communicate with the secretary he promises to make an effort to be made to grant the request.

The Chautauqua management has worked this year to carry the Chautauqua in all of the many details necessary to assure a success.

The board of directors of the Janesville Chautauqua Association are as follows: W. M. Hamilton, B. W. Brewer, D. B. Manross, E. Lane, A. W. Hall, B. T. Fish, Smith Drug Co., P. H. Korst, L. C. Levy, T. O. Howe, John H. Jones, Howard W. Lee, F. A. Parker, Rev. George E. Pascoe, J. H. Jensen, Rev. T. C. Thorsen, J. D. Reiber, A. S. Krotz, A. E. Bingham, Dr. R. J. Hart, H. H. Bliss, H. Haggart, F. G. Jackman, C. H. Weirick, George S. Peterson, Rev. George E. Pascoe, The officers elected by the board of directors are President A. S. Krotz, Treasurer, C. H. Weirick, Secretary and General Manager, Rev. George E. Pascoe, Superintendent of Grounds, E. T. Fish.

The interests of the boys and girls have been uppermost in the minds of those who have had the arrangements of the Chautauqua in charge. The Janesville Chautauqua offers facilities to the children and the young people for wholesome recreation. A playground will remain for six days at the big Chautauqua grounds.

Everybody is invited. One of the principal features tonight will be the ticket rush. Buy children's season tickets will be hidden on the grounds. At a given signal the children will be turned loose to find them. Finders are keepers.

Tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 at the opening exercises Rev. Ewing will offer the invocation, address of welcome by Mayor Patlery. Address, "The Community Spirit," president of the Janesville Commercial Club, J. W. Craig; general remarks by Rev. William Mahoney, assistant rector at St. Patrick's church. Then will follow the regular Chautauqua program, a delightful vocal quartet, the solo, vocal and brass quartet by the Lyric Glee club of Chicago. And a pleasing and educational lecture by costume "Wedding Ceremonies of European Peoples."

EAST INDIAN GIVES AN ADDRESS TONIGHT

Dr. N. Krishna Speaks at West Side Odd Fellows' Hall This Evening on "Conditions in India."

Dr. N. Krishna, a native of India, will give a free lecture at eight o'clock this evening at West Side Odd Fellows' hall on the topic, "Industrial, Political and Social Conditions in India."

Dr. Krishna is a scholar of unusual broad-mindedness, who is quick to analyze fundamentals. He has spent over a year and a half in the United States making a careful study of American life in all its phases and proposes to write a book setting forth results of his American investigations for the benefit of the people of India. "We in India have little knowledge of America; there are no books published in our language which can give us the information we desire, and it is my intention to supply this ever increasing demand."

Dr. Krishna speaks English fluently and will have a message worth hearing. The public is invited.

BELOIT BOYS' BAND RENDERS CONCERT

Line City Band Gives Concert at Rock County Asylum Last Evening.

Inmates of the Rock County asylum and over one hundred visitors enjoyed a real treat last evening when the Beloit Boys' band rendered a concert. The program consisted of twelve numbers, besides the many encores, and the people attending thoroughly enjoyed the music. The organization offered to come to the Rock County institution and at once Superintendent Whipple accepted and made arrangements for the concert. Seven persons came up from the Line City and many people from Janesville and neighbors of the county farm were present at the entertainment last evening. The youngsters' band is led by Mr. McNeil of Beloit, who deserves much credit in getting such a large group of boys organized and trained. Mr. McNeil, also of Beloit, gave a short talk, which was very much enjoyed.

Refreshments were served to two hundred and eighty persons. The grounds were prettily decorated and electric lights had been strung over the place where the band played. The management of the county institution appreciate very much the work of the boys' band and the inmates all enjoyed the evening's program.

YESTERDAY'S MARKETS.
Yesterday's receipts of hogs were a third below expectations, and the quality poorest of the season, resulting in the widest price range of the year.

Best swine sold at $10.12½, while Swift's drove of desirable mixed cost only $9.50. Prices were largely 10¢ higher than Monday.

There was no quotable change in cattle and lamb values yesterday, although the general tendency is lower, owing to increasing supplies and extra tame.

Receipts for today are estimated at 14,000 cattle, 27,000 hogs and 18,000 sheep against 14,200 cattle, 29,965 hogs and 12,500 sheep a year ago.

Average price of hogs at Chicago was $9.75, against $9.65 Monday, $9.80 a week ago, $7.25 a year ago and $9.06 two years ago.

Cattle Trade Lifeless.
Cattle receipts yesterday were quite small, but a liberal supply was tried over from Monday. Trade slow and values little changed. Calves advanced 25¢, best selling at $12. Quotations:

Choice to fancy steers, $16.10¢/10.90¢; poor to good steers, 7.80¢/10.00¢; Yearlings, fair to fancy, 8.10¢/10.35¢; Fat cows and heifers, 7.00¢/9.40¢; Canning cows and cutters, 3.50¢/6.30¢; Value of hots and 5.25¢/8.50¢; Feeding cattle, 6.00¢/11.00¢; lbs., 5.25¢/8.25¢; Poor to fancy veal calves, 8.50¢/12.00¢.

INTERURBAN COMPANY TO USE OLD LOOP WIRE BECAUSE OF COPPER COST

A crew of Rockford and Interurban line men are working on taking down the wires and poles of the old interurban loop on the west side of the river. It is said that the purpose is to use the heavy copper trolley wire for other purposes. Bought at eight cents per pound when it was erected, it is now worth between twenty-five and thirty cents. Furthermore the copper wire market is said to be extremely short and a large order of copper wire is hard to fill.

RUSH ILLUMINATION SYSTEM; GLOBES NOW BEING MOUNTED

Electric company workmen are now engaged in erecting the last units of the new illumination system. Standard collars, globes and other equipment were placed yesterday and expectations are that the work will be completed within ten days providing a second shipment of collars arrive. The work of lining up the standards and connecting them, but a large force is rushing the work as rapidly as possible. With the completion of the wiring and erection work the heavy cast iron poles will be painted.

CAR STOLEN AT BELOIT FOUND BELOW THIS CITY

Reports from Beloit last night told the Janesville police department of the theft of a dilapidated automobile of ancient model from the Line City. The car was found between here and Beloit at a late hour. It had been abandoned when the gasoline gave out.

The Perfect Corn Flakes

New Post Toasties are not only inexpensive but they bear a new deliciousness, produced by a new process of cookery—the first to produce corn flakes with the self-developed true corn flavor.

So fine is this flavor that New Post Toasties are wondrous good eaten dry. Unlike common corn flakes, they do not require cream and sugar to make them palatable. Try some that way—you'll appreciate the point, though they're even better when served with cream or good milk.

These New Post Toasties don't mush down in cream, and they are not "Chaffy" in the package, like common flakes. They're new in form, new in flavor, and new in appearance. Note the tiny bubbles on each flake—an identifying feature.

Put up in wax-sealed packages, New Post Toasties retain their oven-crispness and flavor until served at your table.

Have your grocer deliver a package for tomorrow's breakfast.

FOODS THEY BUILD OR DESTROY

Amazing but rarely suspected truths about the things you eat.

CHAPTER 86.

There is a limit to all physical endurance, including the endurance of vital organs and glands burdened with excess. Many phenomena are to be observed which indicate that it is the bombardment of refined sugars which finally causes the pancreas to break down, destroying the body's natural defense against diabetes. The increased tolerance of the pancreas for honey, which contains the natural salts and colloids natural to unrefined, unmanipulated nectar, contrasts as compared with the essential tolerance of the diabetic for refined sugars, observed by Davidson, we draw no other conclusion than that which has been running through the chapters from the beginning to the end, as supplied by Mother Nature, according to the fixed laws which govern the disclosure of their wisdom. The study of the phenomena of nutrition, simply asks to be let alone, leaving processes change its nature, destroy its integrity and rob it of the substance for the need of which it is sustained by the food.

We know that the health of the circulation can utilize only a certain fixed quantity of glucose—0.1 per cent—of which quantity the healthy or normal pancreas, one of the vital organs of the body, according to the investigations of Zoller, Flueger, Cohle, Minkowski, Norton, Domagala, Klotter and Mitzner, seems to set up an impenetrable barrier.

Well indeed may the scientist who is looking for strange reasons to explain the origin of diabetes be asked these questions: "Does the health of the human body profit by the consumption of enormous non-utilizable quantities of starch, glucose or sugar?"

How long can the body tolerate this overload or excess?

To what does this excess lead?

Can it lead to disease, call that disease by the name of diabetes or by some other name?

In diseased conditions of the circulation the excess or waste glucose is eliminated through the kidneys, but all America is encouraged to use refined starches and glucose in enormous quantities, not only in the circulation at all, but in the fixed limit of 0.1 per cent, a fixed limit, the pancreas, must first break down and become diseased, or, in other words, permits diabetes to develop.

It is well known that the body in health manufactures in a natural manner from the starches, gums, sugars and fats of vegetables, grains and fruits all the glucose it requires for its normal needs and all the glucose it can utilize.

As long as the body remains in health the circulation possesses the power and readiness to rid itself of the excess of glucose, but in the case of diseased animals, old animals, and those bearing offspring, animals nourishing their young, or animals in a feeble state of health, it is not known by any scientist to what extent the circulation, already overtaxed, possesses the power to rid itself daily of large surplus of glucose, the tolerance toward which, as we have already seen, is decidedly limited.

There is indeed much evidence to support the conviction that under such extra burden the controlling organ (the pancreas) must succumb to the strain, thus opening the way to the development of that disease the origin of which seems to be so mysterious, but which all men agree upon in calling it diabetes.

We see in the diminished tolerance for sugars, starches and glucose, even in mild forms of diabetes, an evidence of the failure of the overtaxed body to function normally, where refined sugars and starches are concerned.

Prospective mothers, nursing mothers, people in delicate health, the growing and aged, certainly do not possess over a long period of time the unlimited power of disposing of the waste products of over-indulgence in refined sugars, starches and glucose, regardless of the health of the pancreas.

In these cases it is apparently not the pancreas alone, but other organs as well which become involved under the strain.

Flueger concluded, as a result of his experiments, that there is a relationship between the liver and "pancreas-diabetes," declaring that the liver in diabetes works actively and is the most important seat of production in diabetic sugar.

Bippinger, Folia and Ruchinger have added evidence to show that there is a certain relationship existing in pancreas-diabetes between the pancreas, the liver and the thyroid.

They assert that it is not the pancreas alone that controls the blood content of glucose. What, then, is to be said of the conclusions of those scientists who persist in attributing to the failure of the pancreas the cause of diabetes and who seem to look upon the glucose factor only as a symptom of the disease and never as its cause?

The accidental observation of Davidson, who noted that when honey is permitted in the diet of diabetes it not only does not increase the glycosuria, but actually diminishes the excretion of sugar, and that therefore, honey is a very useful article of diet in diabetes, would seem to throw all the learned discussions of the glucose factor into confusion and despair.

It is in fact indeed when he forgets the commonplaces at his feet and looks for consolation in vain theories, the application of which results in vast profits to commercial institutions whose stockholders are quite content to leave all scientific questions concerning their products to the remotest of remote futures.

QUESTIONS ABOUT FOOD

Q. What is the principal food value of fruits and why are the artificial fruit flavors used by candy manufacturers, ice cream manufacturers, soda water manufacturers, and caterers not as good as the natural flavors? M. C. A.

A. The most important value of fruits consists in their mineral salts and fruit acids. Most fruits are rich in potassium salts, which are united with the folic, tartaric, citric, and malic acids of the ripe fruit juices, producing agreeable acid flavors which are burned up or oxidized in the body into alkaline carbonates.

It has been proved a thousand times that these fruit acids exercise a wonderfully benevolent action upon the blood and kidneys. In such violent diseases as scurvy, beri-beri, anemia, acidosis, and other conditions in which the internal secretions of the body, including the blood, are in an acid state, the mineral properties of fresh fruits are invariably used as medicine.

Such as the peach, the banana, the pineapple, the strawberry, and the apple.

They have absolutely no nutritive value and in many instances are actually dangerous. They are used to disguise otherwise worthless foods in order to make them fool the eye and deceive the palate.

Such foods, however, never fool the stomach. Yet, where there is confusion between eminent scientists and an apparent conflict between the methods adopted by the "Almighty" and the theories advocated by certain professors, the individual possessed of a little reverence for the things that God has put down, and a little common sense with respect to his body, will decide against the professor in favor of God.

Commercial laboratories and commercial chemists have frequently been given fat tests to declare these substances "perfectly harmless." But their opinions, always obtained for cash, have been proved so frequently wrong that they are not worth the paper they are written on.

Candy flavors and soda water flavors are almost universally confined to these synthetic chemical compounds. It is for this reason that the soft candy fakes with all his wares, should be shunned unless they are willing to place upon the label of their product, the name and exact tabulation of its ingredients.

The sad feature of these abuses lies in the fact that they are strictly legal.

Vacation Hints.

- Don't take too much baggage.
- Don't take any cares or worries.
- Don't exercise too strenuously.
- Don't go on judiciously.
- Don't spend too much money.
- Don't forget that a rest is what you are there for and that a vacation that does not put new life into your body and joy into your heart is a failure.

Washburn, Wis., July 19.—It is time to take a vacation if you have not already. Everybody who works either physically or mentally needs a vacation during the year. This has been sounded again and again in the state health bulletin.

With the thought that you cannot afford a vacation this year. The fact is that you cannot afford not to. You can't afford not to rest mind and body from routine.

Perhaps you have not thought what a breakdown or spell of sickness will cost you. You may not afford a vacation trip to the seashore or mountains but you can afford a change of environment for a few days.

Four important points not to be overlooked in taking one's vacation. First, go where your health will be in jeopardy. Stay at no place where you are not properly screened and where there are breeding places for disease. Second, know that wherever there are sanitary means for disposing of sewage. Third, know that the food served you is not diseased and that the milk is pure. Fourth, know that your drink is pure, fifth, be vaccinated against typhoid fever before leaving.

home, thereby reducing your chances of contracting typhoid fever 90 or 100 per cent.

OAT LEAF TROUBLE NOT A GERM DISEASE

College of Agriculture Expert Says Rust on Oats Due to Cold and Wet Season.

That the dry discoloration noticed on much of the oats grown in the state this year is not rust disease, but that it is due to the cold, wet season of spring and early summer is the opinion of L. R. Jones of the College of Agriculture.

The malady shows up in the form of reddish brown leaves in the central portion of the oat plant, while the top and bottom parts of the plant are apparently in good health.

It is believed that there is practically no danger of the disease spreading to other farms and doing further damage.

The wedding took place at the home of the bride's mother, Wednesday, July 12th, before a large number of friends and relatives. Mrs. Olson graduated from the Stoughton high school in 1912 and since then has taught in the Pleasant Grove school of Lucknow.

The groom is a prosperous young farmer who has grown to manhood in our midst and who deserves the esteem of all for his sterling qualities. The young couple will make their home on the Kjerfve homestead, in the house formerly owned by Edward Saxby, after it has been remodeled.

August 1st and 5th are dates which local people are looking forward to with great anticipation. On Friday, August fourth, a community rally and county Y. M. C. A. field day is to be held in the grove on Frank Sayre's farm and on Sunday, August 6th, the sixty-fifth anniversary of the Fulton church is to be observed by a "homecoming" day. Everyone is invited to come and enjoy both days and all who have friends who have moved away are asked to invite them, urging them to be present also, to join us in the good times. Watch for further announcements which will be made later.

Irving and Glenn Gardiner spent Sunday afternoon at James Thomson's. William Wright and sisters are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Turner of Lake Kegonsa.

NIGGER HAIR comes only in long shreds, because only long, unbroken leaf is used in making it.

That means NIGGER HAIR is a real long cut.

And NIGGER HAIR is absolutely free from loose, hard stems—they're picked out by hand.

That means NIGGER HAIR is real tobacco.

Those long, curly strands that make such a solid, lasting chew and pack down into your pipe for a cool, slow-burning smoke, caused our grandfathers to name this tobacco NIGGER HAIR.

Made of pure, ripe, mild Kentucky Burley tobacco. And the ageing we give this leaf—up to five years—puts a satisfying relish into NIGGER HAIR that affords lasting enjoyment, all day long, the year 'round.

MANY RURAL SCHOOLS TO BE BUILT IN 1916

Reports at State Superintendent's Office at Madison Say Over Two Hundred to Be Erected.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Madison, Wis., July 12.—Over 200 school houses will be erected in Wisconsin during the coming year. The reports are being received by the state superintendent's office and they indicate an unprecedented number of new buildings during the coming year. In a number of counties school buildings have been condemned. In Rock county fourteen school buildings alone were condemned. During the past few days Plattville has been building a $300,000 school building and another $700,000 will be voted for a new building.

The greatest building, however, will be done in the rural districts. Many of these will be one-room school buildings, but a larger number will probably be consolidated schools. Much of the money for the erection of these schools is loaned by the state to the district. Reports from the land office show that this year has produced the largest call for school loans of any year in the history of the state. The amount of loans for this year will be between $400,000 and $700,000. The participation of building next year applications have been filed for over $500,000 worth of loans already.

Each of these unusual interest in the building of school houses is the result of the commission and the state superintendent's office have issued a circular giving recommendations for the requirements of the new school buildings. The circular contains complete details of building in order to secure the proper amount of light and ventilation for the convenience and health of the children. It gives directions for the placing of air outlets, basements, exits, blackboards, the seats and the height of windows.

"The contract for the heating and ventilating systems should not be let until the design has been worked out," says the bulletin. "It is often desirable to require a test of the system in cold weather before the building is completed. It is often holding 25 per cent of the contract price or requiring an equivalent bond."

SISTER'S PICTURE

And don't look like herself at all.

She wears more hair than ever before And gets it done at the store; She tries to look just like a star, And that is what my sister is.

She passes like an actor's.

"Bout sixteen times in seven years, And frets and fumes like all possessed, Although the artist does his best.

She squirms and scowls and can't sit straight, And makes the fellow wait and wait, I don't see what she does it for; The picture never looks like her.

UNCLE ABNER

A town without a phonograph is like a family without a telephone. It is liable to worry along and have a pretty good time in life.

Uncle Abner is so stingy that he stole a ham to put in the county jail and get a haircut for nothing.

Another thing that Job never did was to try to unscrew the top off a glass fruit jar.

There is about as much secrecy about a courtship in a town of 1,200 as there is about a magazine explosion aboard a battleship.

It is a feller and gal are seen together in an ice cream parlor folks begin to wonder when they are going to get married.

EVERY REASON TO REFUSE HIM

(Pea Ridge, Ark. Po.)

If a man rides up to you in a hurry and yells out a bottle of whiskey for his mother-in-law, who he has just snakebitten, don't you give it to him for if you do you will have to go to the penitentiary for a year. Anyway, no man would want to be the mother-in-law to a snake-bitten man.

It is a feller and gal are seen together in an ice cream parlor folks begin to wonder when they are going to get married.

THE WAY IT GOES

A biscuit shooter named Marie, when thirty-seven years of age, discovered she had "talent," see? and went upon the mimic stage.

Her "talent" was to sing and she won her job, no doubt of it.

She got into the chorus and the papers said she made a hit.

Her weekly wage was eighteen per cent for boosting a list of names.

The baldhead row went out on her and soon she had a speaking part. They sent her flowers and jewels rare, and now and then a limousine.

And soon she saw her features fair portrayed in every magazine.

She couldn't dance and had no voice, and no one claimed that she could.

But still she was the old boy's choice, despite essentials that she lacked. The manager was not slow and trans formed her into a star.

He hired a man to write a show to fit her needs and there you are.

She bought a lot of swaggy gowns and they made up the entire show.

She played tank time in one-horse towns and always played to S. R. O.

Then back to Broadway for a run that simply set the burg afire.

The manager just rolled in mon and Marie's life was like a song.

Her name on the electric sign in four-foot letters gay and bright.

Announced that Miss Marie de Shine would grace the show shop every night.

With matinees on Wed. and Sat. The line was always four blocks long. The house sold for three weeks, at that time Marie's life was like a song.

They named new bonnets after her. She posed for toothpaste ads and such.

Wherever she went she made a stir and she was the talk of the town.

And now you'd hardly know Marie; she lives in grandeur past compare.

In two cars things have changed, you see, she wed a Pittsburgh millionaire.

WILL DEMOCRATS BE A DIVIDED FACTION?

REPORT OF MILWAUKEE CONVENTION LEAVES SOME QUESTIONS AS TO OUTCOME.

(By Old Politics)

There is one question that arises in my mind and that is whether the split in the democratic ranks in their faction fight is going to be genuine enough to aid the republicans or not. This brings out a second thought. If the split is severe and lasting which faction of the republican party will be benefited the most. The Philippi, the Hutton or the McGovern?

A Real Fight: That a real genuine open rupture between the old Aylward-Davies faction, now represented by Williams, the democrats' choice for governor, and the Karel faction, led by the Milwaukee judge who has twice made the fight for the governorship and been elected by treachery in his own party, is on and how it will go far it will be the next question.

Personally without the aid of the republicans the democrats cannot expect to get anywhere. By this I mean that if the conservatives, represented by Philippi win at the September primaries and the progressive republicans do not run an independent ticket, then turn in and unite with the democrats, then there is a chance, just a chance though, of the present state gubernatorial candidate must have depended upon the question as to whether Williams was pleasing to these progressive republicans or not?

Purely Political: Williams' nomination was forced on the convention by the democrats by clever political methods. County delegates throughout the state chose delegates to the Milwaukee gathering and steam roller methods prevailed and men who were bound hand and foot to the Aylward-Davies faction were chosen to go to the convention and do as they were told. They did it and the result is a serious split in the democratic ranks.

Karel denounced the convention's attitude in naming Williams, saying that Williams had not supported him. Karel—in his campaign and oil was poured on the fire of discontent when a letter was read from Senator Paul Hastings by his brother in which he intimated that this was no crime for a democrat. How the Karel crowd and the Williams crowd are at loggerheads and a second democratic convention is a possibility as a result, which will place a second ticket in the field for the primaries.

The Result: If this should be the decision, a second democratic state ticket, it would tend to keep the democrats at home in their own political camp at the September primaries. This would mean a serious blow to the La Follette faction who have always depended upon "fair minded democrats" to aid them in saving their candidates.

However, Karel is not a lover of La Follette and he may read the plan to cripple him and insist on a second ticket.

Which ever way you look at it the democrats have spilled the beans on the fire although they did not mean to. In the least. There has been too much distribution of federal patronage in the past three years in directions in

ELECTING A PRESIDENT

More Votes For Tilden, but Hayes Elected In 1876.

Hayes.

A GAIN in the election of 1876 the candidate who received the smaller number of popular votes was elected president. Samuel J. Tilden of New York, Democrat, received 4,284,885 votes, and his Republican opponent, Rutherford B. Hayes of Ohio, received 4,033,850. The result of this election was in doubt for many days. Discrepancies in Louisiana changed one vote, and the result in the electoral college was: Hayes, 185; Tilden, 184. An electoral commission decided for Hayes. William A. Wheeler of New York was elected vice president.

James A. Garfield, Republican, defeated W. S. Hancock, Democrat, in 1880. Chester A. Arthur was elected vice president and after Garfield's assassination became president.

JANESVILLE TROOPER IN BORDER HOSPITAL

Merton Miller of This City, In U. S. Cavalry at Border, Was In Hospital.

Jerry A. Miller, 715 Prairie avenue, received a letter this morning from Troop C of the United States Cavalry, stating that he had recently been released from a field hospital, where he was detained for sixteen days. The letter does not state in what hospital he was located or in what reason he was sent to receive medical care. He also states that many gifts are received in boxes sent by United States citizens. The most welcome of these are the magazines and books of fiction. Mr. Miller of this city receives letters from his sons on the average of once a week.

Indignity Miller, the youngest of Mr. Miller's sons, has been a member of Company E of the Signal Corps for the past few months and has been stationed at Honolulu. Very recently his company received orders that they would be sent to Mexico for service. In a letter to his father he said that this order was received with great excitement, as all were eager to be transferred to the scene of action.

Tuesday in spite of the heat there was a good attendance at the Country Club. Several of the golf enthusiasts were out on the links again at four o'clock in the afternoon. At three o'clock there was a bridge game on the porch for the ladies, which was played at five tables. The prizes were won by Mrs. E. D. McGowan, Mrs. Thomas Nolan. A dinner was served at seven o'clock. Reservations were made for Friday. Mrs. Charles Hage and Mrs. Stanley Dineen had charge for the day. The bridge game was the last of a series of games. A new series will be played, and the first one will take place on Tuesday, July 25th.

MEETING THURSDAY

EVENING TO FINISH PREPARING MUSTER

Signers of Petition for Military Company Requested to Meet at City Hall Tomorrow Night.

In order to complete the information desired before the actual muster of the Janesville company of the Wisconsin National Guard, the signers of the petition for the establishment of a company here are requested to meet at the city hall at 8 o'clock Thursday evening.

A communication from Colonel Salsman, who has been detailed to muster the Janesville company, states that the muster should not be mistaken for an enlistment in the regular Wisconsin guard which was called to the Mexican border and is now in the government service. This is distinctly a state guard organization, organized under the new laws which increase the Wisconsin national guard contingent to two brigades.

The Janesville men who enlist will simply be members of the Wisconsin national guard, and will not be sent to the Mexican border with the troops. The muster is for matter of convenience in furnishing the equipment and installing the drills. It is expected that the local company will be organized by Camp Douglas, where full equipment is stored, and that the will be supplied and given preliminary drill, the same as the annual state camp.

The service will be under orders from the state at state pay, which is two dollars per day with rations and transportation for all privates, and a sergeant scale for the non-commissioned officers and three dollars for the commissioned men by the men mustered into the state service. As in the annual state guard encampments, doubtless many will be present to attend for some business reason or other will be granted a furlough.

Colonel Salsman is very anxious to muster the Janesville company, and it is hoped the muster will be held Thursday night long enough to finish the temporary mustering clerk.

Members of the Janesville commission yesterday held their regular weekly meeting at the city hall.

Bills for labor and material, amounting to $2,348.66, were allowed. Reports of the city treasurer, the visiting nurse and of the plumbing inspection for the month of June were received and ordered filed.

City Clerk J. P. Peter said that the city has been instructed to bid for the furnishing of coal to the city for the ensuing year.

The board of public works was instructed to lay water and sewer mains on the street between the putting in of the new pavement. Plans and specifications for water, gas and sewer pipes, from the mains to the curb and the city street, were approved, and the city clerk was instructed to give notice to property-owners to build these services.

Petitions for filing: Lincoln street, from Hill to Main avenue; Wisconsin street, from Hill to Main avenue; Pleasant street from Five Points to Pine; East street from Milwaukee street to Prospect avenue; Fifth street, from Hill to Holmes; Park avenue from Holmes to Holmes; North First, from East to North Bluff; and North Main from Glen street to a point on North Glen street were received and placed on file.

Oiling was ordered on Lincoln, Wisconsin, Pleasant, East High, North First, North Bluff and North Main streets, and on North Main between the Wisconsin and Pleasant streets.

Commissioner of Streets Peter J. Goodman was ordered to serve notice on the building owners of Lot No. 10, block 10, of the subdivision of Prospect avenue, 11, 14, 15, 18, 19, 23 and 25, Norton's subdivision on the south side of South Main street and on lots No. 125 and 126 of block 10, between the east side of Freeman street.

The city stone crusher is to be put in commission and the city clerk was ordered to purchase 1,000 pounds of dynamite, caps and steel drill points for this work.

City attorney Dougherty reports on the settlement of two cases against the city, the first that of Alfred Bahr and the second that of the Gould Construction company for extra work necessitated in the city by the building of the Milwaukee street bridge.

The building of the Milwaukee street bridge by the city company, settled with Bahr at no expense to the city. In the bridge case the city paid the company $800 against a claim of $2,200 sought in the action.

City Clerk Peter was ordered to draw the order for the $800 in favor of the construction company.

MANY FARMERS ASK FOR CROP INSPECTION

Close to Two Hundred Make Application to Agriculture College For Its Services.

About 175 farmers in all parts of Wisconsin's potato belt have applied for the service of the horticultural department, College of Agriculture, in inspecting their crops under the state seed potato certification plan adopted two years ago.

The application limit was extended to July 15 to allow a few more farmers to come in under the provisions of the service for 1916-17.

The work for the present year will be finished by the end of the month. J. G. Milward and J. W. Ingham of the Agricultural Experiment Station will have charge of the field inspection, the first one to start about August first and lasting for about six weeks. The second inspection will begin about the middle of October.

Last season 172 applications were received and 110 growers in twenty-six counties were granted certification on their seed stock at the close of the season. Growers who sign up for the inspection work are allowed to withdraw before the second inspection is made. The fees are made as low as possible and cover the cost of carrying on the work.

A greatly increased crop of early stock will be inspected this year in order to supply a better certified stock to the southern seed trade.

FORESTS OF SOUTH

MUST BE PRESERVED

Chief U. S. Forester, in Speech, Tells of Great Value in Southern Pine Forests.

In an address before the Southern Forestry Congress at Asheville on July 11, Henry S. Graves, chief forester of the United States, emphasized the importance of the timber supply of the south and pointed out methods by which it may be perpetuated.

"Nowhere in the whole United States," said Mr. Graves, "are the naval stores industry or the protection of hardwood timber being carried on with the same natural and economic advantages as in the southeast. Forests occupy more than half the total land area of the south. Southern pine is the principal softwood used in furniture making. The country east of the plains. Backed by a supply of some 325 billion feet of yellow pine and about 20,000 sawmills, the pine industry holds today a commanding place in the south's lumber market. By their very magnitude the forest problems of the south command attention."

In addition to the value of the timber the southern pines, said Mr. Graves, furnish annually about thirty-five million dollars worth of turpentine, rosin, etc. This income is in danger of being largely lost through failure properly to care for and perpetuate the forests.

"The turpentine industry of southern pine is a man-made industry. A century ago the barrel and stave could be bought at any price one was willing to pay. Today the poorest land covered with 2-year seedlings of pine, or 19-20 Stocked with 30-year old pine it is worth $100 an acre. In this country the turpentine industry has been a source of a great natural wealth. Instead of being fostered and preserved by diligence of man, its destruction will be brought about unless steps are taken to perpetuate it. The growing of timber for turpentine purposes is a profitable undertaking at present."

Sixty-one per cent of the present hardwood supply of the country is located in the south. Mr. Graves pointed out. Moreover, many of the most important hardwoods are supplied wholly by the southern forests. The Appalachian region produces about fifty per cent of the hardwood used in the country, and forms the chief remaining source of supply. At the present time the hardwood timber will not last many years. Under proper methods, however, the southern Appalachian region alone can be made to grow a continuous supply of lumber and other products.

There is a great need, said Mr. Graves, for more of the states to provide for forest fire prevention under the federal law in co-operation with the national government. The lumber companies should also combine to prevent fires in their holdings. This can be done by protective associations such as have been formed elsewhere.

Once the fire problem is controlled the possibilities of forestry in the south are unlimited. When the people of the south wake up to the value of the resources at stake and take necessary steps to prevent their destruction and waste, the forests of the south may be made to yield a continuous supply of lumber and other products.

Winters Are Not Cold, Says Texas Newspaper

THESE two cheery looking people comprise the Emerson Winters Company, advertised to appear here on the fifth day of the Chautauqua program. They are Mr. Emerson Winters and Alice Nire Winters. A Texas newspaper described them a few days ago as "Winners." "They gave," this paper said, "the brightest, sprightliest, cheeriest, jolliest, laughiest and sunniest entertainment that has come down this section of the pike for many a day. But they are misnamed. There is nothing cold or frigid about them. They are as smiling as spring and as warm as summer."

Mrs. Winters' whistling is a feature of their program. The twitter of the sparrow, the drawn out notes of the meadow lark, the melodious air of the canary and the jerky call of Bob White are all reproduced. Also she gives several whistling solos that have brought her fame.

Mr. Winters' program consists of readings including the ridiculous and serious, character sketches in costume woven into a delightful, snappy lightning change act, together with several reels of talking songs or piano monologues.

In these piano monologues Mr. Winters is a genius, and his original parodies on current song hits are side splitters. Think of mixing corned beef, cabbage and doughnuts into a song that was meant to deal exclusively with moonlight, flowers and love! But Mr. Winters does it in such a way that after he has finished you must pin your clothes together where the buttons flew off.

HOT WEATHER HINTS ARE HELPFUL NOW

It is just as well in this very warm weather to avoid disputes and arguments. Doctors tell us that it is dangerous to become stirred up and excited at a time when the excessive heat inclines everyone to a mild derangement.

You may not know it, but in very hot weather you are begging your pardon—a bit off your nut. The cerebral coil misses a few sparks. You do all sorts of little things that indicate your weakened faculties. But of course everyone else is in the same condition and seldom sees it.

Just the same you'd better have an eye on those about you, especially anyone you know to be of a highly strung nature. People of this sort it is that in very hot weather most often run amuck. It is important to realize as you walk down the street on a very warm day that you are in the midst of a crowd of incipient lunatics, any one of whom at any moment may become violent and fight you to the death.

A knowledge of first aid in such cases is often handy and there are excellent and simple ways of restraining a heat-crazed disturber if you are cool enough and quick. The natives of the tropics may be observed to seize their deranged companions and sit on their heads holding them firmly by the nose. If it should be a lady, this method does not seem expedient, try fixing the miscreant with a stern eye. But an extreme ruse you will do well to obey the natural impulse. Select an adjacent lamp-post and climb it briskly.

ENGLAND MAY TAKE OVER MOVING PICTURE HOUSES FOR ARMS WORKERS' HOMES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, July 19.—School-rooms or moving picture palaces may be taken over by the government as temporary living quarters for women and girls employed either in the munition factories or in the ordinary business of London and other large cities. It will be one way of solving one of the vexing problems of the war, namely the housing of thousands of women workers. To this end, the government is now considering the possibility of taking over the houses of the upper and middle classes whose age prevents them from entering munition factories or other war work. The plan is to assist the government in improvising a comprehensive scheme.

Scarcity of labor has stopped building and the small cottages in or near the centers of population are in unusual demand. The sudden increase in the number of munition workers has involved great migrations of labor.

If there is a scarcity, amounting almost to a famine, of small houses, in a good many cases, though not in all, large houses can be obtained. One way of living has led upper and middle-class families to migrate from the large house to the small one, or a flat. Many large houses are empty, but the women have yet to get together on a plan to occupy them economically or in keeping with their incomes. An appeal was recently made to landlords to allow the temporary occupation of such dwellings, to be conducted as hotels or shared out among women.

At a few women's hotels these women obtain comfort and excellent meals at an exceedingly modest price. Such a result is possible only by combination and co-operation because alone in a rooming house women could not live so cheaply. Where there is an absence of houses the government is considering using moving picture houses or school-rooms.

AGAIN TALKING TUNNEL BENEATH ENGLISH CHANNEL

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] London, July 19.—The old project of building a tunnel under the English channel to connect England with the continent has again been revived. Plans are on foot for a meeting of a large number of members of Parliament to consider how far the scheme can be furthered at present with a view to putting it into execution at the end of the war. The decision of the Allies' Trade Conference to establish rapid land and sea transport services at low cost is said to have a direct bearing on the revival of the matter.

Mary Pickford Again in "Esmeralda" Of all the great dramatic successes of Frances Hodgson Burnett, "Esmeralda" is the most tender and lovable characterization ever created by this gifted authoress. As "Esmeralda" in the photoplay based on this great stage success, produced by the Famous Players Film Co. for Paramount pictures, Mary Pickford renders one of the most touching screen impersonations of the year.

This great photoplay attraction will again be seen at the Apollo on Friday.

AT THE BEVERLY, TONIGHT.

Lillian Walker in "The Man Behind the Curtain."

The Beverly presents tonight a special Vitaphone attraction, Lillian Walker, in "The Man Behind the Curtain," in five acts. This wonderful production is by far one of the greatest ever produced by the Vitaphone company.

Miss Lillian Walker, affectionately known as "Dimples," throughout the motion picture world, does make a title in a number of scenes in "The Man Behind the Curtain."

The curtain is not in the form of a Prince Albert or full dress, but closely resembles what might be found in the wardrobe of a peddler. It is worn very cleverly by this famous actress who adopts masculine traits and characteristics as well as the garb.

Through the rags and tatters, the wonderful magnetism of the wearer manifests itself and one firmly declares that "Dimples" is quite as charming in an old suit as most people dream of being in a modiste's creation.

Little Hobble Connelly, the celebrated child actor, carries an important part in this wonderful production. The usual comedy feature will also be shown tonight.

AT THE BEVERLY, THURSDAY.

Lewis S. Stone, Supported by Margaret Clayton in "According to the Code," Five Acts.

Basil Brockbridge, a broken old man on the verge of starvation, but concealing it well as became a proud southern ancestry, is set upon by young ruffians on the street. The old man becomes infuriated and gives the young leader a shaking. His father, Ald. Connors, the city's chief, happens along and attacks the man who strikes at him with his cane. The sword blade inside flies out and the police arrest him on the charge of assault with intent to kill.

Col. Wright, attorney for the friendless, takes his case. It comes up before Judge John Anderson, protégé of Boss Connors, who has just been made assistant district attorney, and is there to prosecute.

The accused defendant sees the scar on the judge's forehead and hears his name. He sees the judge as a rival captaining in the civil war, the confederate picking up the wounded union officer and taking him to his home. He recalls that when he believed dead and buried home with him. Both were near him now, the first time he had seen him for decades. His wife sat behind him, his son was prosecuting him. The scar on the judge's forehead was the mark of their secret duel.

A sword, awarded Capt. Knighton for gallantry, and pawned the aged defendant the day before, is introduced at the trial but the defendant disclaims ownership.

Recognition comes on the part of Judge and Mrs. Anderson, and in chambers they plead with Connors and their son, but to no avail.

The prisoner's head sinks to his breast when the jury returns. His does not rise when his son, "your honor," says Col. Wright, after a pause, "the defendant has taken his place, a higher court."

Reverently Judge Anderson and his wife place the historic sword in the still hands of the late defendant, then court room knowing to whom it rightfully belonged.

As an extra attraction Thursday, the Beverly will present the Hearst International News Service, showing up-to-the-minute scenes of interest from all parts of the world.

JAPPS COMPILE STATISTICS OF INDUSTRIAL FORCES

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Tokyo, July 19.—The Japanese government has inaugurated an extensive investigation into the industrial and commercial conditions of the Empire including the causes of the change in population, the occupation of the people, the classification of the number of independent occupations and an inquiry into the problem of the unemployed. The underlying idea is that of devising means to develop Japan's industrial and commercial forces.

GRANT COUNTY ASYLUM PROFITABLE INSTITUTION

Lancaster, Wis., July 19.—The Grant county farm not only pays all expenses for its upkeep and for the 184 inmates but also turns a large amount into the county treasury at the end of each year.

The farm's surplus for last year amounted to more than $2,000 and it will be more this year, according to M. V. Burris, superintendent. The inmates are given exercise in the caring for the 500 acres, a state pays the county $4.50 a week for the care of each inmate.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

BY DAISY DEAN

Gertrude McCoy will this month signalize her appearance following her success in "The Isle of Love," by playing the leading role in "Gates of Divorce." Miss McCoy has been specially fitted with the part by Robert Burns, author of a number of screen successes. It is that of a potent, foolish wife who is "wrapped up" in trivial society affairs and in her pet dog to the exclusion of her home-loving, hard working husband. The name of the photoplay is symbolic of the anguish through which the wife must go before she finds that her true happiness is not through the "gates of divorce" as she had thought once.

Miss McCoy is supported by practically an all-star cast. Alexander Gaden plays the husband, Iva Stenard plays the society friend, Lucille herself appears as the apparently simple maiden in whose clutches the husband is thrown by the social blackie, an unsympathetic role in the capable hands of John Reinhard. The scenes are laid in society in New York City.

HINDU WANTS FILM "HAZARD"

Vishwanath Chintman Bhide, who lives in Poona City, Bombay Presidency, India, writes confessing a desire to become a moving picture actor. Having seen Grace Cunard and Francis Ford in India he concludes he also would like to "hazard" himself in the films. He writes: "I am very much anxious to hazard myself in coming over there and act in your European as well as Indian films. I am high class Hindu and venture to ask what pay is for me if you allow me to come over there. I shall be very much obliged and thankful if you will not hesitate to give me this opportunity and I hope you will send all your detailed information and guidance."

In "The Seekers," Flora Parker De Haven is a member of a religious sect. Devoted to charitable works, she becomes a nurse in the home of a preacher, one of the leaders of the community. TURKS GIVE KAISER TURQUOISE TALISMAN; GETS A PIN FROM BILL

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Vienna, July 19.—Representing "the gratitude and admiration of all Mohammedans," Mehdi Gassen of Neschen, Persia, a resident of Vienna, has presented Emperor William of Germany with a huge talisman fashioned by himself out of turquoise. In return the emperor has given him a stickpin containing his monogram in diamond.

For the talisman Gassen chose one of the three largest turquoise in existence, a stone the size of an ostrich egg. This is mounted in gold, surrounded by a crown and the letter "W" and "1916." Below the huge turquoise are four smaller stones, the Persian sun and lion, and on the medallions on which the stones are mounted is a Persian poem to the Kaiser engraved in Arabic.

MRS. EVA LEONARD

In Which Ethel's Deceit Is Discovered and a Family Row Follows.

"Never mind, it usually comes the second of the month and then I will be safe," she thought as she dozed off. "How I wish I had never bought the suit. It has been a constant worry. I can't see how I can pay anything on it and I paid nothing for it. Oh, this grinding poverty!"

Her nap did her good and she rose and looked at the clock. "There is one thing, Ralph can't not find fault with me for being careless of my personal appearance," she thought approvingly as she gazed at her reflection in the glass.

"What are you and Sons writing to you for?" inquired her husband as he handed her the bill when he came to supper. Her heart beat fast as she took it and looked it over. "Some advertisement, probably," she answered in a tone that she tried to make careless. Her heightened color and nervousness held Ralph's attention.

"Why did you not open the letter?" he asked, looking fixedly at her.

"I must get supper on the table. I have been in bed all the afternoon with a headache," she answered by way of diversion.

"Would you mind opening it? Of course it is not a bill. You would not buy anything on credit, knowing how I feel about it. There was a expression about the envelope that terrified the girl. She stood rooted to the spot unable to think what to do. Ralph held out his hand for the envelope and she handed it over. He opened the envelope and it seemed to Ethel that the silence that followed would never end. When he looked up his face was hard and set.

"Have you no sense of honor that you should lie to me about that suit? His voice was low and the deliberate coolness of his manner seemed awful to Ethel.

"I did not lie, I said—"

"You gave me to understand that your mother gave you that suit."

"I said that she insisted on my having it. I never said she gave it to me," Ethel was struggling against tears.

"No matter what you said, you gave me the impression that she gave it to you. You meant to deceive me. You have failed me utterly."

"I have not failed you. I have never even looked at any man since we were married. I love you, or did love you," Ethel wiped her eyes.

"If there were but one way to fall your husband, I can never respect a woman who would so deliberately deceive me, and I cannot love any one I cannot respect. You are an utter disappointment to me."

"Ralph, Gordon you have no right to say such things to me. I have done nothing to deserve it. I got that suit intending to pay for it and never bother you about it. You make a fuss over every day I spend. I did not succeed in getting it paid for, but buying a suit is not a point of honor. You treat me as if I were a criminal." Ethel's eyes flashed.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON. Letters may be addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a girl of fifteen. Is it all right for a boy friend of mine to come to see me once in a while on Sunday nights?

(2) How can you tell if a boy cares for you?

(3) Please tell me if there is any harm in writing to a boy who lives in an adjoining town?

(4) I am going away to spend a few days with a girl friend of mine, and two boys want to come to see me. The boy I have been keeping company with is very handsome; he has fine manners and is nice when in company. There is also another boy whom I like very much. This boy wishes to call on me while I am visiting my friend. I know almost nothing about the second boy. Which one shall I let come?

(5) Some people do not believe in fortune tellers. Please tell me if they can foretell the future?

(6) Is it proper to go machine riding after dark if your parents do not object?

any night. If I were you I would not have company for a year or two. (2) If he is anxious to be with you and to please you in every way that he can, you may be sure he likes you. (3) If you and the boy see each other frequently, letter writing would be silly, but if you do not see each other it is all right. (4) Don't let a boy come to see you until you know enough about him to be sure you want him to be your friend. If you let either of the boys come, it better be the boy you know. (5) One cannot count on the future; that fortune tellers foretell. I do not believe that girls of fifteen should go auto riding after dark unless they are chaperoned.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young lady of seventeen years and have been much for young man a year and I haven't seen him for a month. We quit then. He has gone back with one of his old friends. Please tell me what I should do. Should I treat him friendly or not notice him? I should like to remain his affection.

CONSTANCE.

Treat him in a friendly way, but with a certain amount of indifference. If you ignore him he will know that you care for him. Indifference has won back more than one boy.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young lady and am very homesick. I make no feel had when I go along the street and hear people remark about how homesick I am. And so I come to you to find out how I can come better looking.

HOMELY.

New Perfection Oil Cook Stoves

No Odor No Smoke
No Ashes

Truly this is the housewife's idea of paradise. And those features are only a few of the many advantages of cooking with New Perfection Oil Cook Stoves.

No longer is it necessary for you to suffer from the intense heat of the wood or coal burning range long before you are ready to begin operations.

Just touch a match to the wick and your fire is ready when you want it.

You can have a slow fire or an exceedingly hot one; just as you wish.

You don't have to watch it either. The flame will not creep up or diminish.

The Long Blue Chimney is the key to the efficiency of the New Perfection Oil Cook Stoves.

The flame never touches the bottom of the utensils. Every atom of oil is burned and converted into useable heat in the long blue chimney. No waste—no dirt—no odor. It makes your summer cooking easy.

Write for booklet giving full description and prices of the various types.

Are You for "Preparedness?" The best preparedness for man or woman comes from living in harmony with law. In Summer cut out the heavy foods that tax strength. Eat Shredded Wheat Biscuit, the food that contains all the body-building material in the whole wheat grain in a digestible form. For breakfast with milk or cream; for luncheon with berries or other fruits.

GINGLES' JINGLES

TOUGH LUCK. You can start in the morning, if you should so choose, and you can develop a grudge sufficiently large to make you much despised, make people dodge you and say "ouch." It hurts them to size up a man of your type; they side-step all guys such as you. They hate the physics of a ghoul-like gink who can find nothing better to do than whine and complain and to crab on the way, find fault and be always at outs, that's never in line to help boost a good cause but strong on the breaks and the doubts, and worse, yes, by far, for himself and his foes, (foes is right for of friends he has none) surrounded by clouds that are heavy and black, no chance for the light of the sun, for those who can't stand it to be in his midst can beat it away from the gloom, can hug from the place where the guy pulls his grinch, can give the grizzly much room, but he must continue to be with himself, must be his companion for life; so pity this nut with his back to the sun, who can't cheerfully enter the strife.

SIDE TALKS

By RUTH CATERON

THOSE SELFISH, UNSELFISH MEN. Sometimes I think men are the most exasperating, selfish creatures in the world. They make such a fuss about their money, they scold so when the morning paper doesn't come or when the laundryman is late, or at any of the small mishaps that are the warp and woof of the daily life, and that would not matter much if people only wouldn't fuss about them.

And then I wonder how they can be so unselfish.

One day I was in New York I called upon a friend who lives in Brooklyn. I was myself staying at the other end of the city and the trip took me one hour and three quarters, much of which was spent in a not ill-ventilated crowded subway.

It was a terrible trip, and I couldn't help commencing upon it to my hostess.

He spends three hours and a half a day in the subway.

"How would you like to take it every day?" she asked. "One of my neighbors does that. His business was so bad that he took the subway. He isn't strong and he had just gotten acquainted and she didn't want to move again right away, so he has to go back."

INDIGESTION DUE TO ULCER. Of the fifty-seven varieties of indigestion listed by confirmed dyspeptics, practically all are spurious. We should know the gallstone type the other day. Today we describe the ulcer type—gastric (stomach) ulcer or duodenal ulcer.

APPLE RELISH. Chop or coarsely grind a food chopper enough apples to make about six pints; also pimento or sweet Spanish pepper to make about two cups. Mix with two cups sugar and two tablespoons of vinegar with older vinegar and seal in glass cans. Chopped celery or celery seed added gives a delicious flavor.

GOOSEBERRY CONSERVE. One quart gooseberries, one orange, one-fourth box seeded raisins, two pints granulated sugar, one-fourth pint water.

Put whole orange through fine knife of meat grinder. Mix all ingredients and cook for twenty or twenty-five minutes. Pour in jelly-glasses and when cold pour over a thin covering of paraffin. Fill six glasses.

His eyes opened at the sight of the gold, and he grinned broadly. "What's the game?" he asked.

"A bet," I said. "I haven't time to explain, but to win it I've got to be a milkman for the next ten minutes. All you've got to do is to stay here till I come back. You'll be a bit late, but nobody will complain, and you'll have that quid for yourself."

"Right-o!" he said cheerily. "I ain't the man to spoil a bit of sport. Here's the rizz, guv'nor."

I stuck on his flat, blue hat and his white overalls, picked up the cans, balanced my door and went whistling downstairs. The porter at the foot told me to shut my jaw, which sounded as if my makeup was adequate.

At first I thought there was nobody in the street. Then I caught sight of a policeman a hundred yards down and a loafer shuffling past on the other side. Some impulse made me raise my eyes to the house opposite, and there at a first floor window was a face.

As the loafer passed he looked up, and I fancied a signal was exchanged. I crossed the street, whistling gaily and imitating the jaunty swing of the milkman. Then I took the first side street and turned up a left hand turning which led past a lot of vacant ground. There was no one in the little street, so I dropped the milk cans inside the building and sent the hat and overalls after them.

I had only just put on my cloth cap when a postman came round the corner. I gave him good morning, and he answered me unobtrusively. Just then the clock of a neighboring church struck the hour of 7.

There was not a moment to spare. As soon as I got to Easton road I took to my heels and ran. The clock at Easton station showed five minutes past the hour. At St. Pancras I had no time to take a ticket, let alone that I had not settled upon my destination. A porter told me the platform, and as I entered it I saw the train already in motion.

Two station officials blocked the way, but I dodged them and clambered into the last carriage.

Three minutes later as we were rattling through the northern tunnels an irate guard interviewed me. He wrote out for me a ticket to Newtown Stewart, a name which had suddenly come back to my memory, and he converted me from the first class compartment where I had ensconced myself to a third class smoker, occupied by a sailor and a stout woman with a child.

He went off grumbling, and as I mopped my brow I observed to my companions in my broadcast search that it was a sore job, catching trains. I had already entered upon my part.

"The impudence of that guard!" said the lady bitterly. "He needn't a Scotch tongue to put him in his place. He was complaining of this man no baoh!" a ticket and her no fewer till August twelvemonth, and he was objecting to this gentleman's spitting."

The sailor cheerfully agreed, and I started my new life in an atmosphere of protest against authority. I reminded myself that a week ago I had been finding the world dull.

I had a solemn time traveling north that day.

It was fine May weather, with the hawthorn flowering on every hedge, and I asked myself why, when I was still a free man, I had stayed on in London and not got the good of this heavenly country. I didn't dare face the restaurant car, but I got a luncheon basket at Leeds and shared it with the fat woman.

Also I got the morning papers, with news about starters for the Derby and the beginning of the cricket season, and some paragraphs about how Italian affairs were settling down and a British squadron was going to Kiel.

When I had done with them I got out Scudder's little black notebook and studied it. It was pretty well filled with jottings, chiefly figures, though now and then a name was printed in. For example, I found the words "Hof-guard," "Luneville" and "Arcoador" pretty often and especially the word "Pavia."

Now I was certain that Scudder never did anything without a reason, and I was pretty sure that there was a cipher in all this. That is a subject which has always interested me, and I did a bit at it myself once as intelligence officer at Delagoa bay during the Boer war.

I have always had a head for things like chess and puzzles, and I used to reckon myself pretty good at finding out ciphers.

This one looked like the numerical kind, where sets of figures correspond to the letters of the alphabet, but any fairly shrewd man can find the clue to that sort after an hour or two's work, and I didn't think Scudder would have been content with anything so easy. So I fastened on the printed words, for you can make a pretty good numerical cipher if you have a key word which gives you the sequence of the letters.

I tried for hours, but none of the words answered.

Then I fell asleep and woke at Dymfriest just in time to bundle out and get into the slow Galloway train. There was a man on the platform whose looks I didn't like, but he never glanced at me, and when I caught sight of myself in the mirror of an automatic machine I didn't wonder.

With my brown face, my old tweeds and my slouch I was the very model of one of the hill farmers who were crowding into the third class carriages.

I traveled with half a dozen in an atmosphere of shag and clay pipes. They had come from the weekly market, and their mouths were full of prices. I heard accounts of how the lambing had gone up the Cullin and the Deuch and a dozen other mysterious waters.

About half of the men had lunched heavily and were highly flavored with whisky, but they let me alone. We rumbled slowly into a land of little wooded glens and then to a great, wide moorland place, gleaming with lochs, with high, blue hills showing northward.

About 5 o'clock the carriages had emptied, and I was left alone, as I had hoped. I got out at the next station, a little place whose name I scarcely noted, set in the heart of a bog. It reminded me of one of those forgotten little stations in the Karroos.

An old station master was digging in his garden and with his spade over his shoulder sauntered to the train, took charge of a parcel and went back to his potatoes. A child of ten received my ticket, and I emerged on a white road that straggled over the moss.

It was a gorgeous spring evening, with every hill showing as clear as a cut amethyst.

The air had the queer rooky smell of bogs, but it was as fresh as midocean, and it had the strangest effect on my spirits. I actually felt light hearted.

I might have been a boy out for spring holiday tramp instead of a man of thirty-seven very much wanted by the police.

I felt just as I used to feel when I was starting for a big trek on a frosty morning on the high veldt.

If you believe me, I swung along that road whistling. There was no plan of campaign in my head, only just to go on and on in this blessed, honest smelling hill country, for every mile put me in better humor.

In a roadside plantation I cut a walking stick of hazel and presently struck off the highway up a bypath which followed the glen of a babbling stream.

I reckoned that I was still far ahead of any pursuit and for that night might please myself. It was some hours since I had tasted food, and I was getting very hungry when I came to a herd's cottage set in a nook beside a waterfall. A brown faced woman was standing by the door and greeted me with the kindly shyness of moorland places.

When I asked for a night's lodging she said I was welcome to the "bed in the loft," and very soon she set before me a hearty meal of ham and eggs, scones and thick sweet milk. At the darkening her man came in from the hills, a lean giant, who in one step covered as much ground as three paces of ordinary mortals.

They asked no questions, for they had the perfect breeding of all dwellers in the wilds, but I could see they set me down as some kind of dealer, and I took a little trouble to confirm their view.

I spoke a lot about cattle, of which my host knew little, and I picked up from him a good deal about the local Galloway markets, which I tucked away in my memory for future use.

At 10 I was nodding in my chair, and the bed in the loft received a weary man, who never opened his eyes till 5 o'clock set the little homestead going once more.

They refused any payment, and by 6 I had breakfasted and was striding southward again.

My notion was to return to the railway line a station or two farther on than the place where I had alighted yesterday and to double back. I reckoned that was the safest way, for the police would naturally assume that I was always making farther from London in the direction of some western port.

I thought I had still a good bit of a start, for as I reasoned it would take some hours to fix the blame on me and several more to identify the fellow who got on board the train at St. Pancras.

It was the same jolly clear spring weather, and I simply could not contrive to feel careworn. Indeed, I was in better spirits than I had been for months. Over a long ridge of moorland I took my road, skirting the side of a high hill which the herd had called Cairnmore of Fleet.

Nesting curlews and plovers were crying everywhere, and the links of green pasture by the streams were dotted with young lambs. All the slackness of the past months was slipping from my bones, and I stepped out like a four-year-old. By and by I came to a swell of moorland which dipped to the vale of a little river, and a mile away in the heather I saw the smoke of a train.

The station when I reached it proved to be ideal for my purpose. The moor surged up around it and left room only for the single line, the sleeper siding, a waiting room, an office, the station master's cottage and a tiny yard of gooseberries and sweet william.

There seemed no road to it from anywhere, and to increase the desolation the waves of a loch lapped on their gray granite beach half a mile away. I waited in the deep heather till I saw the smoke of an east going train on the horizon. Then I approached the tiny booking office and took a ticket for Dumfriest.

The only occupants of the carriage were an old shepherd and his dog, a wall-eyed brute that I mistrusted. The man was asleep, and on the cushions beside him was that morning's Scotsman. Eagerly I seized on it, for I fancied it would tell me something.

There were two columns about the Portland place murder, as it was called. My man Faddock had given the alarm and had the milkman arrested. Poor devil! It looked as if the latter had earned his sovereign handsily. But for me he had been cheap at the price, for he seemed to have occupied the police the better part of the day.

In the stop press news I found a further installment of the story.

The milkman had been released, I read, and the true criminal, about whose identity the police were reth cent, was believed to have got away from London by one of the northern lines. There was a short note about me as the owner of the flat.

I guessed the police had stuck that in as a clumsy contrivance to persuade me that I was unsuspected.

There was nothing else in the paper—nothing about foreign politics or Karlovidas or the things that had interested Scudder. I laid it down and found that we were approaching the station at which I had got out yesterday.

The potato digging station master had been gingered up into some activity, for the west going train was waiting to let us pass, and from it had descended three men, who were asking nine questions.

CHAPTER IV. The Mysterious Aeroplane.

I SUPPOSED that they were the local police who had been stirred up by Scotland Yard and had traced me as far as this one horse siding.

Sitting well back in the shadow, I watched them carefully. One of them had a book and took down notes. The old potato digger seemed to have turned peevish, but the child who had collected my ticket was talking volubly.

All the party looked out across the moor where the white road departed. I hoped they were going to take up my tracks there.

As we moved away from that station my companion woke up. He fixed me with a wondering glance, kicked his dog viciously and inquired where he was. Clearly he was very drunk.

"That's what comes of bein' a teetotaler," he observed in bitter tones.

I expressed my surprise that in him I should have met a blue ribbon stalwart.

"Aye, but I'm a strong teetotaler," he said pugnaciously. "I took the pledge last Martinmas and I have not touched a drop of whisky slasney. No oven at Hogmanay, though I was sair tempted."

He swung his heels up on the seat and burrowed a frowsy head into the cushions.

"And that's a' I get," he moaned. "A held better than hell-fire and twae-eelookin' different ways for Sunday."

"What did it?" I asked.

"A drink they ca' brandy. Bein' a teetotaler, I kept off the whisky, but I was nip-nipnin' a' day restreen at this brandy, and I doubt I'll no be weel for a fortnicht."

His voice died away into a stutter and sleep once more laid its heavy hand on him.

My plan had been to get out at some station down the line, but the train suddenly gave me a better chance, for it came to a standstill at the end of a culvert which spanned a brawling porter colored river. I looked out and saw that every carriage window was closed and no human figure appeared in the landscape.

So I opened the door and dropped quickly into the tangle of hazels which edged the line.

It would have been all right but for that infernal dog. Under the impression that I was decamping with its master's belongings it started to bark and all but got me by the trousers. This woke up the herd who stood bawling at the carriage door in the belief that I had committed suicide.

I crawled through the thicket, reached the edge of the stream and in cover of the bushes put a hundred yards or so behind me.

Then from my shelter I peered back and saw the guard had several passengers gathered around the open carriage door and staring in my direction. I could not have made a more public departure if I had left with a beggar and a brass band.

Happily the drunken herd provided a diversion. He and his dog, which was attached by a rope to his waist, suddenly cascaded out of the carriage, landed on their heads on the track and rolled some way down the bank toward the water. In the rescue which followed the dog bit somebody, for I could hear the sound of hard swearing.

Dinner Stories

A French-Canadian guide came into camp one day greatly excited. He had a handful of wild cranberries which he exhibited with pride. "You know the li' cranberries?" he asked the assembled party. "Well, you take the li' cranberries an' you put him on the fire with plenty of de sug—oh, fig lot of de sug—an' you let him cook long time. Then you take him off an' let him cool. An' v'ial! You have a more better apple sauce than you can make out of de prune!"

A well-known card player fell up against a well-developed faro game during an unusually fierce and sanguinary argument with the tiger, and quit loser about $1,600. As he rose to leave the guided arena, the dealer remarked in a very cheerful manner: "Hold on a minute; we're going to have a little lunch of cold ham, etc., in a few minutes. Won't you join us?" "Join you be damned!" roared the victim of the combat, as he turned on his heel with an air of disdain and quit the place. "Do you think I can eat $1,600 worth of ham?"

Every Cold Should Be Considered Serious

So says the best medical authorities. Unless promptly checked, often they lead to chronic bronchial and pulmonary troubles which may prove fatal.

If your cough or cold has not responded to treatment—and remember, medicine should not be solely relied on—timely use of Eckman's Alterative may give you relief.

For more than twenty years it has been benefiting sufferers from these disorders. It is especially indicated where the system demands lime, for it contains calcium chloride so combined as to be easily assimilated by the average person.

Safe to try—because it contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs of any sort whatsoever.

where it will do good!

It takes all the satisfaction out of "making a kick" if you have to do it in a letter, after your lumber has been delivered. It's hard to get action, and costly, irritating delay results.

Why not build it of HEMLOCK, the "Old Faithful" lumber? You buy that right here at home where you can see it first if you like. And if you should have a complaint (which is very unlikely) you have somebody you can talk to about it who will simply be glad to straighten everything out to your satisfaction and without delay.

FREE PLAN BOOK—(published by "The Hemlock Manufacturers," Oshkosh, Wis.) contains descriptions, plans and pictures of "Old Faithful" HEMLOCK Houses, Barns, Hog Houses, Silos, Poultry Houses, Granaries, etc. No charge—no obligation. But don't forget "Old Faithful."

can eat $1,600 worth of ham?"

Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, discussing preparedness at a reception, said:

"Opposition can only come from ignorance—ignorance as abysmal as the young recruit's."

"A young recruit was on guard for the first time, and late in the night the officer of the day passed on his rounds."

"Halt! Who goes there?" shouted the recruit.

"The recruit, thinking he had made a haul, grabbed the officer by the arm and said:

"Officer of the day, hey? Then what the dickens do you mean by slinking around here this time of the night?"

Nature Acts Quickly to Protect the Skin

In giving X-Ray treatments physicians do not administer the full standard dose until the skin has been bronzed by the milder rays.

Nature acts quickly to throw over the skin a brown pigment of protection against the burning of tissue.

The rays of light that decompose tissue also decompose the protein (albumin) in beer, causing a skunky taste, but not in Schlitz.

The Brown Bottle Protects Schlitz

That's why it tastes so good. It's nutritive value is unimpaired.

SOX TROUNCE MACKS IN DOUBLE, 9-2; 3-2

Rowlands Take Double Bill From Philadelphia—Make Clean Sweep of Series There.

The Sox took two from Philadelphia yesterday, and as a result made a clean sweep of the series with the Mackmen. There was little excitement in either game, as the Sox were going along strong while the Macks were playing in direct contrast. The scores were 9-2 and 3-2.

Eddie Cicotte pitched the first game. Against him were arrayed Lanning, a southpaw college pitcher who is being tutored for the outer garden, and Jim Nabors.

Jim Scott was on the mound in the second against Elmer Myers, a man with a lightning fast ball that had the Sox swinging like a barn gate for the first three innings. After they discovered they were too slow for connections, they started bunting and racing around the bases and drawing Philadelphia throws all over the lot. When the Macks came to bat in the last of the ninth the score was 3 to 0 against them. A couple of dinky hits and several Sox errors made the count 4 to 2 before Cicotte awoke. They settled and with two on retired the next three batters.

TINKER FORFEITS GAME TO ROBINS

Vaughn's Slow Hurling Draws Penalty and Manager Protests—Umpire Gives Brooklyn the Game.

The Cubs forfeited to Brooklyn yesterday after Tinker refused to leave the field when ordered away by Umpire Byron. When the latter had charged Vaughn with delaying the game and called a ball on O'Mara while the Cub pitcher was holding the sphere in his hand, Tinker came into the field with a bound. He denied Vaughn was stalling. It was the tenth inning and the score was tied 4 to 4.

Tinker is to make a protest over the forfeit. If he loses it will cost his club an exact $1,000 and himself at least ten. The rule under which Brooklyn gave the game is No. 33, and for years has been a dead one. It says the umpire shall call a ball upon the pitcher each time he delays the game by failing to deliver the ball to the batsman for a period longer than twenty seconds.

Tinker's objection and refusal to leave the field left Byron no alternative than to forfeit the game. He did.

LUDERUS' SLUMP IS COSTLY TO PHILS; FAILS TO HIT LAST SEASON'S STRIDE

Fred Luderus.

Fred Luderus' failure to hit at all with the vim he showed last season has meant a big loss to the Phillies, who would have been surer of staying near the top if Fred's stride of last season was still with him. Pat Moran believes firmly that if Fred were leading the league at bat as he did a big part of last season the Phillies would be on top and able to stay there.

MORRIS MILLER

Jim Dunn, the Cleveland owner, is a hit with the fans. Not long ago the printer who made the Cleveland score cards managed to get out three hundred cards with the same number on and this number turned out to be the lucky one for the next day's game. This is a stunt that is worked with the score cards of most big league towns. The holder of the card with the lucky number gets a free seat for the game next day. When the three hundred fans at first did not show up with the same lucky number did Jim Dunn call all bets off and cancel the thing. He did not every single fan of the bunch got his free ticket.

Roger Hornsby of the Cardinals is the child wonder of the National league. With no more professional experience than just a few months in a class D league, he came to the Cards and made good at once. He has been batting over .300 and fielding around short and third in the most finished fashion. What's more, they claim that he shines particularly at first and will look even better there. Though Roger is a bit unfortunate in entering the big leagues in a St. Louis—where nothing in a baseball uniform is given serious consideration—he has shown such untimely questionable class that he must be acknowledged as a star.

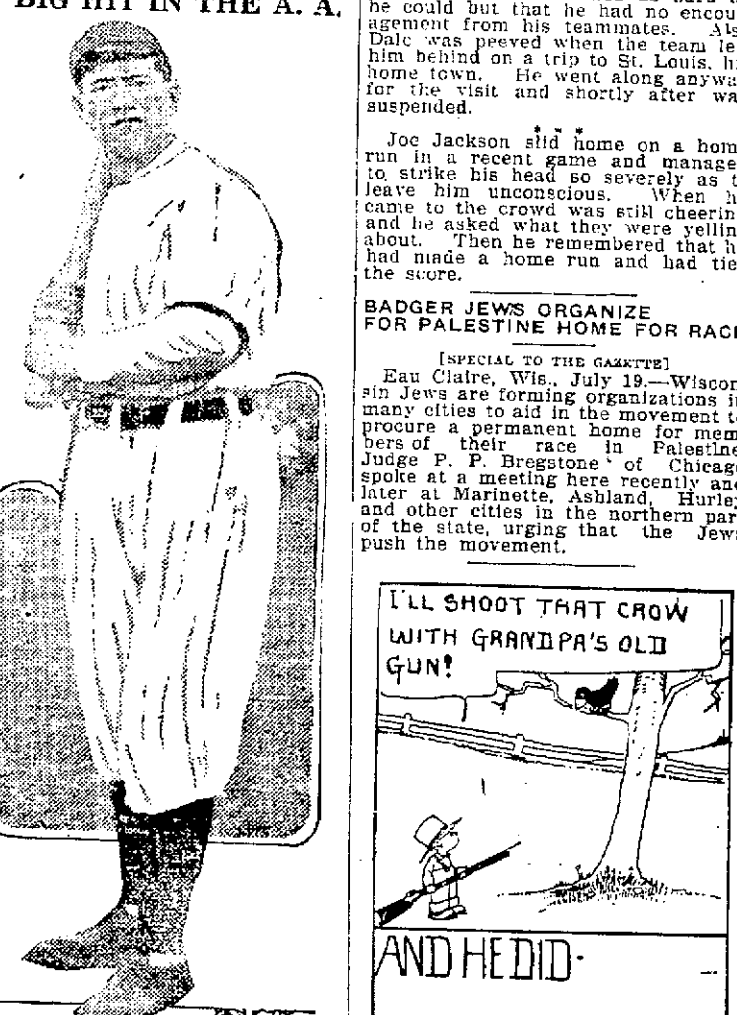

Fans are the fickle creatures. Ray Chapman has been the idol of Cleveland fans till during his rest with an injury Bill Wambegans replaced him and made such a hit with the fans that when Chapman returned there were cries from the fans for Wambegans. So Lee Fohl put Wambegans back, but instead of putting him at short to replace Chapman, Wambegans went to second and Ivan Howard was given a rest. So it's most likely there will soon be cries for Howard.

Molder Jones' original manner of winning ball games—"get one run and hold it," says Molder—seems to work all right for the opposition. The

BROWNS HAVE LOST LOTS OF GAMES BY ONE RUN LATELY AND WHEN THEY HAVE WON THEY'VE BEEN OBLIGED TO DIG IN AND PILE UP A STOCK OF RUNS THAT KEPT THE GAME SAME TILL THE END

Harry ("Slim") Saltee, the disgruntled St. Louis twirler, needn't worry if he doesn't earn a wage at baseball. He has a 150-acre farm in Ohio and is said to have sited away a sum that amounts to five figures, which should keep him from want for some time. Just the same, Slim complains that he has always had the worst of it in baseball, which, however, isn't an uncommon remark from ball players.

JIM THORPE'S SPEED BIG HIT IN THE A. A.

Jim Thorpe.

Jim Thorpe, who is playing fast ball for the Milwaukee Brewers, seems to have the stolen base record for the season put away on ice. Though his batting is not high, the Indian has shown so much speed on the bases and in the field that the Cincinnati Reds have been trying to grab him up.

U. S. SOLDIERS IN TENTS AT PEKING GIVES SCARE; SCARLET FEVER THE TROUBLE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Peking, July 19.—Scarlet fever broke out among the two hundred American marines stationed in Peking as a guard at the American legation. In an effort to prevent the spread of the disease, Colonel Neville, commandant of the guard, ordered the men to move out of the barracks and placed them under canvas, with only two men in each tent. The tents were pitched on the recreation ground adjoining the legation compound and outside the compound wall where all Chinese could see them plainly.

Immediately a rumor was circulated that the American legation had brought extra troops from the Philippines to protect foreigners against possible rioting which might result from the unsettled political conditions and the financial stringency brought about by the moratorium. This rumor grew, and added to it was a report that the Japanese were also to bring in thousands of troops from Tsingtau and Japan for the protection of foreigners.

These reports became so insistent, that the Chinese government issued a formal denial, explaining the reason for the noted colony beside the American legation compound.

Only five of the American marines have the scarlet fever. These are quarantined in a gun-shed on the city wall adjoining the legation.

Mahon, counsel for the association, will speak tomorrow. The convention will close Thursday afternoon with an entertainment.

MAY SEND MORE WHEAT TO BRUSSELS HOSPITALS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Amsterdam, Netherlands, July 19.—A commission of American doctors has been visiting the Brussels hospitals investigating whether an increase of the Belgian population bread rations is necessary. Should the affirmative, the American Commission for Relief in Belgium will ask the British government to consent to the supply of wheat from the United States being proportionately increased.

Commenting on the subject, a Brussels correspondent writes that the present position is one of "general national under-feeding."

Sewer Assessment.
Office of the Board of Public Works, Janesville, Wis. July 18, 1916.
To whom it may concern:
The Mayor and Council of the City of Janesville, having determined that it is expedient and necessary that the sewer district from Milwaukee to South Main street be improved by laying with reinforced concrete, the laying of gutters and curbs, and otherwise improved at the expense of the real estate to be benefited thereby, and having ordered that the Board of Public Works to view the premises and determine the benefits and damages which shall accrue to each parcel of real estate affected by such change or improvement; the entire cost of the contemplated work or improvement upon said streets and the amount that shall be assessed to each parcel of real estate as benefits and damages accruing thereto, by such contemplated work or improvement.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that the Board of Public Works will meet on the 27th day of July, 1916, at 2:00 in the afternoon, at their office in the city hall of said city for the purpose of making such assessment, and that all persons interested may appear and be heard upon the matter of the assessment and the apportionment of the expense of construction of the sewer on each side of said sewer.

Notice is further given that at least one day prior to such hearing the board of public works will make and file in the city clerk's office a table intelligibly exhibiting the sums to be assessed on all the lots, parts of lots and parcels of land in each of said sewer, which table shall be open to public inspection.

The Congregational church, of Chicago, as leader of the choir. The game of ball yesterday outside of the eighth and ninth innings was the poorest exhibition of playing the Mutuals have made this season. The boys seemed to appreciate the fact that they would have to travel all night, and did not exert themselves until it became apparent that they would have to do so to save the game. On the eighth's, the Mutuals placed the old reliable, Morrissey, behind the bat, while Smith relieved Hanson. The result of the change was apparent at once. The Jeffersons failed to make another score, while the Mutuals added ten tallies to their side.

Something For Fun

Uncle-Bill And The Movies

Uncle Bill is taking a nap. When a young man, Uncle went to Africa, and for one thing brought home this picture of a great monkey he captured there.

As he sleeps he dreams that the great ape begins to climb out of the picture saying, "Look here, Uncle. It's about time I paid you back for taking me away from my happy home in the jungle." Then he gave a great bound out of the picture and seized Uncle Bill by the throat, causing him to cry out in terror. He wakes up to find that it is all a dream. Instead of the great ape choking him it was only his good wife trying to awaken him so he could eat the dinner she had prepared. She says: "For the land's sake, what were you dreaming about?"

Whitewater News

Whitewater, July 19.—Mr. and Mrs. Grant White's son, Grant, was severely bitten last Sunday by a dog. He and his father went to Rankin McMillin's and when they arrived the boy ran up to a chained shepherd dog. The animal threw him down and bit him on the arm, neck and back, some of the wounds being deep and requiring stitches to close them up. Close watch is being kept on the dog to be sure there are no signs of rabies. The injury was done in a very short time, as there were four men only a few yards away.

This year's camp has been the most successful ever held in the history of a scout organization in this city.

SAVE ALL YOUR NICKELS! THEY'RE WORTH SIX CENTS

War Raises Value: Copper in Coin Worth More Than the Nickel.

Look in your pocket! How many nickels have you?

Five? Good! They're worth thirty cents!

To be exact every five cent piece in the United States is now worth $0.5823621, nearly a cent more than its face value.

The war's the reason.

If J. P. Morgan could corner the nickel and the gold and all other old metal he'd make a bonus of $8,000,000 over their face value. For the treasury department at Washington tells us that $65,008,887 nickels have been coined.

The nickel in a nickel is worth less than the copper in a nickel.

Who gets all our nickels? Public service corporations, such as traction and telephone companies! Ice cream and cigar stores get a lot, but these are soon passed on.

Think of the profits the street car company could make by hoarding its nickels and selling them at a cent apiece profit.

Suppose you ask your favorite candy parlor to increase the size of its ice cream sodas, or sell you six sticks of gum for a nickel. Try it, and see what happens!

Germany needs copper and nickel. What if the Kaiser should buy a shipload of nickels and send them back to Bremen on the super-submarine Deutschland? Would this be a violation of United States neutrality?

There is no law to prevent nickels being melted into old metal, treasury officials say.

Milton Junction News

Milton Junction, July 19.—The ice cream social given by the W. R. C. on Mrs. Cookley's lawn Tuesday evening was largely attended. The lawn was decorated with bunting and a life and drum corps furnished martial music.

Archie Cullen and William Klitzkie visited William Cullen Tuesday at Mercy hospital at Janesville.

Mrs. Walter Hill and Miss Rachel Halsey of Chicago, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morse.

Dennis Hayes was a business caller in Janesville Tuesday.

Mrs. C. C. Wagner is able to be up after her recent illness.

Raymond C. Korman of Milwaukee, is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Luebke.

Laura Boett returned home from Edgerton Tuesday after a visit with friends.

WAR ON BLIND TIGERS IS CRY OF CITIZENS

Albany Discovers Dangerous Beast Exists in Their Temperance Midst as Result of Max Meske's Death.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Albany, Wis., July 19.—Whether the murderer of Max Meske, whose body was found floating in the river following a Fourth of July debauch, will ever be brought to justice or not remains to be seen, but the citizens of this peaceful Green county town are going to kill the "blind tiger" in his own lair.

The coroner's jury found that Max Meske met his death "from causes unknown," but they also brought out the fact that lots of liquor was being handled in out of the way corners in Albany, much to the detriment of the citizens and community as a whole.

General impression is that Meske was killed in a drunken row and his body thrown into the river after he had dragged some distance. Who killed him or how he met his death is an unknown quantity, but Meske is thought to have been confined, his liquor and where he was confined, managed to elude the questions of the district attorney and investigators so that no tangible evidence was obtained against him.

Meske had been drinking on the afternoon of the Fourth and was at home when his wife and daughter appeared, and not until his body was found in the river days later was his fate known. Meanwhile his wife had feared that he was confined in Hahn's house, tied up and a prisoner. She obtained a search warrant, but no trace could be discovered, although she thought she heard groans when she called his name in the cellar window.

When the body was found the upper pocket of his shirt was filled with dirt. It was of a variety that comes from but one location in the village and not the river bed of the stream. This would indicate that Meske was killed and his body dragged to the river and then thrown in.

While search is still being made for the possible slayer of Meske, the citizens are going after the bootleggers and a careful watch is being kept of several suspected parties. Prosecution will follow and a merry war to rid the community of the presence of the liquor men will be made.

The verdict of the coroner's jury was caused much dissatisfaction among the people of the town, who believe that the verdict was a "hit-or-miss" for somebody. Judge Gohmshagen, who served the search warrant by which the house of William Hahn, was confined some time, thought that Meske died from the effects of alcohol and was afterwards thrown into the river to give the appearance of suicide.

One definite result of the popular indignation in this town in connection with Meske's death and the "blind tigers" will be an active crusade against the latter.

COUNTY HARVESTS A HEAVY HAY CROP

Every Piece of New Seeding Yields Abundantly—Grain Harvest Will Start Soon.

Rock county farmers have nearly completed harvesting their hay crop, which is one of the heaviest in recent years. New seeding turned out unusually well, the yield in many cases being three and four loads to the acre. Old seeding did not do as well, but still produced more than the average amount. Hay barns all over the county will be filled to capacity this year and many farmers will be forced to stack part of the crop. The hot weather of the past fortnight has been excellent for curing the heavy growth, although the high temperature and the lack of refreshing breezes has made work in the hay field and hay barn exceptionally trying.

Grain harvest will be under way in a few days, rye and wheat being ready for the binder. Barley is ripening rapidly and oats will be ready to cut within ten days. Winter grains give promise of fair yields, according to farmers and barley fields show indications of a good crop. Conditions have been unfavorable for oats, as the heat and lack of moisture has prevented the grain from filling satisfactorily.

Corn continues to improve in all sections of the county, although some fields are beginning to show the effects of the drought. Tobacco also needs rain, especially the late plantings, which have not yet been favored with a single shower.

Joplin, Mo., July 19.—Four men who have been imprisoned in the Babcock mines near here since two o'clock Monday afternoon, were rescued alive at 7:15 o'clock this morning.

---and the Worst Is Yet to Come

While search is still being made for the possible slayer of Meske, the citizens are going after the bootleggers and a careful watch is being kept of several suspected parties. Prosecution will follow and a merry war to rid the community of the presence of the liquor men will be made.

Judge Gohmshagen, who served the search warrant by which the house of William Hahn, was confined some time, thought that Meske died from the effects of alcohol and was afterwards thrown into the river to give the appearance of suicide.

One definite result of the popular indignation in this town in connection with Meske's death and the "blind tigers" will be an active crusade against the latter.

While search is still being made for the possible slayer of Meske, the citizens are going after the bootleggers and a careful watch is being kept of several suspected parties. Prosecution will follow and a merry war to rid the community of the presence of the liquor men will be made.

The verdict of the coroner's jury was caused much dissatisfaction among the people of the town, who believe that the verdict was a "hit-or-miss" for somebody.
